Rat Portage is Filling up with Strangers From all Over Canada and the States.

Strangers in large numbers are arriving in town every day, to be present at the great boat race between Towns and Gandaur. All the permanent hotel accommodation is being taken up by telegraphic messages, and the question of housing the visitors is beginning to cause some anxiety. The C.P.it/company will shortly announce a $2 return rate between here and Winnipeg, and the N.P.R. is to follow suit in reducing rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis in order to get a big crowd across the border. The Rainy River Navigation Company has made arrangements to handle all the water traffic and will run excursions from Mine Centre, Fort Frances and all intermediate points on both the Canadian and American sides of the river; Contingents from eastern cities, including New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, are also making ready to start for the Lake of the Woods. Nevel before in the history of Rat Portage, was its commercial future so bright as it is today. The mining in dustry was never in such a flearishing condition that is the industry and not the tiothy booming and company flotation, which filled some of us with false hopes, and visions of hig mining cities some years ago. Today the gold mining business has risen to a settled industry like the flour milling and lumbering. The Sultana, Mikado, Black Eagle, Sakoose and other mines are commercial concerns, employing large numbers of men, and producing so much gold and making a certain margin of profit like auy other trade or business. The lumbering trade was never so brisk as at present, and the same cause which makes this so-the abnormal wheat crop-is having the same effect upon the railroad business. which promises to employ, and have quartered here, more train crews, than ever before in the history of the Can. THE TOMATO CROP

Mackey's Island has jumped into prominence this summer by producing two of the most prolific crops of strawberries and tomatoes ever seen in the Rainy River District, Last month the output of strawberries fairly dislocated the market, as the local dealers were not prepared for the alundant during the season. To the Editor of the Miner:

Dear Sir, Being a very busy man side of my sleeping hours, which I make a rule to preserve inviolate, I feel, on entering a barber shop for a bair cut or shave, that now I shall have an half hom of perfect rest, but, of late, what is my surprise to have the barber, before I have fully settled myself for a blissful moment of inertia, break in with some such question as this: "How will you have your hair cut, sir, short or long, square or round?" As if I knew his business better than he. For one single moment I feel as if I should like to throttle the man, and then social courtesy comes to my aid and I simply say "Not too short." As regards the quare or round I have yet to discover the meaning of those terms. Then all through his work we have, a running Ontario fire of questions of the same nature, always ending up with the question, "Will you have your neck shaved, sir?" As if I could see the back of my neck whether it needed shaving or not. We are glad of this, because we considered that our quarrel is not with individ-

Asked as to his opinion of the fighting qualities of the British soldier. Munnik said: "They have done as no other nation would have done. They have fought against difficulties which people in Europe never will understand. They are men, and you cantake it from me that this is the opinion every man who has fought against them has of the British soldier. Magersfontein showed us what the bravery of the British soldier who walks was. It was grand. Our men mowed them down, but it had no stopping effect, and if any man says the soldier did not come on he lies."

INHUMAN WAR.

The radical journals of the continent of Europe, which have a few disciples among the editors of publications on this side of the pond, and many among those pen-wielders who mould public opinion under the stars and stripes, are loud in their condemnations of Kitchener's methods of conducting the closing scenes of the Boer war. Not antil several months after the occurrence of an interesting event in Egyptian Soudan has an account of it been received in London. It was an event that has receiled other events of the kind which took place in immemorial times and representations of which may yet be seen by temples of ancient Egypt.

When Lord Cromer made his latest visit to Khartoum, as the representative of the British authority in Egypt, he held court (durbar) at the auge red palace there, which was attended by many of the Mohammedan magnates, who appeared in great pomp. There was a ceremony of an inusually impressive character when a body of warlike and stately sheiks. mounted upon their camels, arrived at the palace. They had ridden for who interviewed some Boer prisoners 600 miles from their country far up the White Nile, and their journey had lasted three months. There was in the embassy seven of the greatest sheiks and one woman of the highest rank, all belonging to an ancient tribe of Dinkas, whom ethnologists of that part of Africa.

The Dinka embassy of sheiks, which had obtained permission to visit Khartoum, received a ceremonious welcome from Lord Cromer when they arrived at the palace, after they had announced that it was their purpose to pay homage to him. As the representative of British Majesty he offered them welcome in the Arab language, assuring them that they would be protected, that their welfare would surely be promoted under the Anglo-Egyptian rule, that they the British troops (who had been drawn up and set in array for the occasion) would guard their country as a part of great Egypt.

The Dinka sheiks were greatly pleased with their welcome. They rendered an obeisance to the potent white lord, and they chanted a worldold hymn in his praise, after which they performed the most curious part of the ceremony. One stately sheik advanced toward Lord Cromer, bearing aloft the Dinka crown of honor. consisted of a black, conical shaped brinless hat, ornamented with plumes of black ostrich teathers. INHUMAN WAR.

The radical journals of the continent of Europe, which have a few disciples among the editors of publications on this side of the pond, and many among those pen-wielders who mould public opinion under the stars and stripes, are loud in their condemnations of Kitchener's methods of conducting the pany he gave sundry gifts, among closing spenes of the Boer war. The Baltimore Sun is one of these latter, but, it appears that there are journalists in the United States who can use common sense in their arguments, even when defending a cause not their own, as the following from the Duluth Tribune in answer to the Baltimore Sun's vaporings will show:

"War is a game," says the Tribune in which men cut each other's throats. probable that they are descended from ancestors who lived in their That is the regular, everyday part of the business and any claim that some body has been waging war in "barbarous," or "atrocious," or "inhuman fashion, should be carefully scanned, since war is of necessity barbarism, atrocity and inhumanity, It's very strange if you may kill men in war but may not destroy property But we are told with flaming indig--nation that burning farms is waging war on women and children. Thes people who get excited so easily over this point should remember that every nation that ever made war at all ha made war on women and children and has under parlicular exigencies set systematically to work to burn the houses over the heads of women and children and to starve them to death. In the siege of a city the besiegers make it their business to cut off the entry of all supplies, to bombard those within its fortifications with red hot shots and shells filled with combustible ingredients. The women and children have to take their chances with the rest. The only sacred spot in a besieged place is the hospital. If the lost in the Red Sea, is now under the commander of a city or any other rule of Edward VII. of England. place under siege should ask in th name of humanity that the women and children be permitted to march out, the request would be treated with infinite contempt by the generals of the most humane nations in the world. most humane nations in the world. ing strain: "I am not a bigger fool "War is hell" and in the name of mili-than you are, and Lido not come here tary necessity the action of Sherman to be made a target for a consortand Sheridan was absolutely justifiable and has been justified by all but some maudlin sentimentalists. KOCH'S NEW THEORY

Important Parts of His Recent Speech Verbatim,

THE TUBERCULOSIS PARASITE.

His Recent Experiments With Consumption - Animals Fed With Different & Bacilli-Evidence From Older Litera-Aures Virgient Bacilli Consumed - New (ases of Allm. ntary Infection Quarantine Uniecessary,

The following extracts from the verbatin address of Dr. Koch, beenlosis, the offer day, cover the subbect of his new theory:

The real cruse of the disease was a parasite, a visible and palpable enemy which we could pursue and annilidate. Strictly speaking , the fact that tuberculosis was at prefentable discase ought tagliave become clear as soon as the tablered bacillus was discovered and the properties of this parasite and nationer of its transmission became known; In by far the majority of cases tuberculosis had its seat in the lungs, and had also begun there: As to the question of where the inhaled tubercle bacill had come from there was also no doubt On the contrary, we know with certamly they got sito the air from spoton of consumptive patients, spatem of consumerors pagency, which almost adways contained tubercle barilli, sometimes in incre-dible quantities. By roughing and even speaking it was flung into the air in little drops, i.e., in a moist condition, and could at once infect persons which happened to be near the conglers, but then it might also be pulverized, when dried in linen or on the floor, for instance, and get into the air in the form of dust, which in virtue of its smallness, could keep floating a good while in the gir, and Enally, to new infection."

The sputtant of consumptive people then, was to, be regarded as the main reserve of the infection of tubercules is: Eighas : been demonstrated thorough investigation that though hereditary tuberculosis was hon-existent it was severtheless extremely rare. Another possibility of tubercular infection existed, it was generally assumed, in the transmission of gorins of the disgone tubercular animals to The manner of infection was westlik regarded nowadays as pokepl orapin by not a few as the most disportant, and rigorous menswere demanded against it in His investigation had form an opinion deviating which was generally ac-All tegged their permission, dig consideration of the great importthis question, to discuss it a to the more thoroughly. The difference between human and boving tuberculosis appeared not less strikingly in similar experiments with asses, sheep and goats, into whose vascular systems the two kinds of tubercle bacilli were injected. These experiments were not the only ones that have led to this result.

one studies older literature on the subject and collated reports of numerous experiments made in former times by Chanveau, Gunther and Harms, Bollinger and others, who fed calves. / swine and goats with tubercular material, one found animals that were fed with milk and pieces of lungs of tubercular cattle always fell ill of tuberculosis, whereas those that received human material with their food did not.. Considering all the facts, he fest justified in maintaining that human tuberculosis differed from bovine, and could not be transmitted to cattle.

Now, how was it, with the susceptibility of man to bovine tuberculasis? Highly important as this question was, it was impossible to give a direct answer because experi-mental investigation of it with human beings was out of the question. Indirectly, however, we could try Lo. aburoach it. It is well known that milk and butter consumed in great cities very often contained. large quantities of the bacilli of bovine tuberculosis in living condition, as numerous infection experiments with such dairy products on animals had proved.

Most of the inhabitants of such cities consumed such living and perfectly virulent bacilli of bovine tuberculosis and unintentionally carried out the experiment which were not at liberty to make. If the bacilli of bovine tuberculosis were able to infect human beings many cases of tuberculosis caused by the consumption of alimenta containing tubercle bacilli could not help but occur among the inhabitants of great especially ...children. Most medical men believe this was actually the case. In reality, however, it was not so. That a case of tuberculosis had been caused by alimental could sbe assumed with certainty only when the intestines suffered first, i.e., when so-called primary tuberculosis of the intestines was found, but such cases were extremely Among the many cases of tubeyoulosis examined; after death? he himself remembered having seen primary tuberculosis of the intesprimary ines only twice among the great obst-mortem material of the Charite Hospital in Berlin.

AVAL RENDEZVOUS.

-MPIRE'S NEW NAVAL BASE AT MAR-QUISE, NEWFOUNDLAND.

It Is to Be Fortified to Safeguard British Interests in North Ankrican Waters-Natives to Be Trained for the Navy-Strategetic Importance of the Station French Interests Are Affected.

Great Britain has fully decided to establish a naval station in Newfoundland for the training of young fishermen for the British Navy and for the better protection of her interests in North American waters. The third-class cruiser Calypso, 2,: 770 tons, has been selected by the Admiralty for special service stationary drill ship and will be statidned in Placentia Bay on the south side of the island, at a place called Marquise.

The gradual conversion of Marquise into a great naval stronghold is only a matter of time and money The place is destined to become the readezvous for a large British squadron and the new scheme of Imperial defence provides a liberal estimate for its maintenance. A graving dock for the repair of warships will built, a force of artificers will be stationed there and while the machine shops in St. Johns will probatily suffice for present purposes the erection of others at Marquise must follow before long, and the establishment of such a plant would necessitate the port being garrisoned. it will serve another important purpose in that it will be made a coaling station. At present there is no fortified fort save Halifax in the British Atlantic provinces and there immense stocks are stored. Sydney it is true, is the place where the coal is mined and there it is easy to procure stocks in summer, but for the winter months it is icebound. Placentia Bay contains many splendid herbors and is never blocked with ice floes. Marquise is situated on a splendid haven, forming part of Placentia Sound and enclosed, between beetling hills, which rise steeply on every side. There is ample area to accommodate a large fleet and a narrow channel which could be easily defemiled against hostile cruisers by a submarine torpedo scheme. It is capable of being converted into a magnaticent naval stronghold, where squadron could ride and merchant stimmers seek protection.

The strategic importance of the new station is illustrated by the fact that the bay opens out upon the Grand Banks of Newfoundland and thence upon the North Atlantic The squadron stationed there could dominate a vest sweep of ocean, and control the water-borne coronerra of Canada by way of the St. Lawrence to the westward. In fact the present scheme includes a plan for the virtual policing of the North Atlantic Ocean in the interest of British commerce Shipping near the British coast would obtain two days protection from the mayal acouts cruising west of Land's End. The patrol operating off Cape Race would afford another two days' safety, and would then turn freighters over to the squadror of Halifick, to goard them to their destinution. The only undefended portion of the route would be the one thousand miles of mid-occan cruisers of the Powerful type would assist considerably in reduc-AUSTRALIAS GROWTH Likely to Be Bapid Now the Common wealth Is a Fact.

Now that Confederation is accomplished. Australia will go ahead like a bonfire, is the enthusiastic view of Mr. G. I. Doyle, a young Australian from Sydney, New South Wales, Mr. Doyle states that previous to Confederation the colonies were kept back by constant differences and comparatively petty jealousies. Now Australia is all one country, and enterprises will be planned and carried out on a national and continental scale, and in consequence development will be unprecedented. The Boer war, unfortunate as it was in itself was the great force which welded the Australian colonies together. The Boer war found Australiasia a dis-connected series of colonies; it left them a compact, enthusiastic com monweilth.

The new capital city. Mr. Doyle thinks, will likely be in the Young district, about 400 miles from Sydnev 250 miles from the searbast, a site very central to the three great colonies. He has been away from Australia now about five months.

In Japan Mr. Doyle spent a couple of months, and was struck most; of by the fact that the English language had distanced all other for eign tongues, so that it was impos sible for a German or a Frenchman to get along with the natives with learning some English, whereas an Englishman could make himself. understood, practically, everywhere

In Australia Mr. Poyle is connected with the sheep-raising industry, or as Canadians would say, ranching. He stopped off and visited the ranches about Calgary, and found a considerable difference between Canadian and Australian methods; In-Canada, apparently, the rancher buys a homestead of 320 or 640 otros and rents 10,000 or 20,000 from the Government to range his herds upon. He seems to go into it with the idea that he will make money as rapidly as he can, and then retire; and in consequence there is a temporary air all his buildings and sarroundings, and he submits to many personal discomforts while he is building up his fortune. In Australia the rancher buys outright a home- conduct, and the inconvenience it stead of ten fwenty, or thirty thous. gave me, of the Old Country, repreand acres and proceeds to improve sented by the cabman, taking it, so that he and his children after him will live there in comfort and amid pleasant surroundings, and upon it as their permanent look The result is that he puts up a fine house, surrounds it with trees and vines, and proceeds to make him self as comfortable as if he lived in a city. In Manitoba Mr. Doyle noticed that the houses had a more homelike character, as if the people intended to live there their natural lives, and he had no doubt as time went on the homes in the Far West would take on that more permanent and pleasant character which "incy

"A GENT UNCONSCIOUS."

How the London Cabby Monored the Fighting Colonials.

A delightful little story comes to is from one whose name, alas! already a remembrance. Miss Kingsley appreciated fully, the patriotism of "the mad in the street" underlying much of the so-called jingoism, and illustrates her meaning by the following: "It was a wet night, and I. returning home from the meeting of a learned society, hailed a slowlycrawling cab. Sorry I can't take you in, mum, said the driver: 'I've gent unconscious inside.' me, said I, 'why don't you take him to St. George's at once?' 'He ain't a hospital case, said he, looking down on the gent unconscious through the trap-door.

" 'He'll be better by and bye. He's one of them colonials of ours just home to his native land for the first time, and he's gone and excited himself, that's all. I retired, and the cab and the colonist drifted away into the rain; but still it was nice to think, in spite of the colonist's of him like that."

All that was necessary was to cultivate in pure material tubercle bacilli found in Jubercular minterial and to ascertain whether they belonged to hoving tuberculosis by inoculating cattle with them. For this purpose he recommended a subcutaneous injection which yielded quick, especially charactoristic and convincing results. A Former Rescue. The recent attempted escape of Rice, Jones and Rudledge is not without a precedent, says The Toronto World. Some 24 years ago during the regime of Sheriff Jarvis a prisoner by the name of Tom Relly, was being transferred from the court; where he had; just been sentenced to six years' imprisonment for burglary, to the jail. At that time as at the present, a hack was used to convey prisoners back and forth. With Kelly in the back were | two constables, but neither of them were armed. At almost the same spot on Gerrard street, where the recent tality occurred; Kelly succeeded in breaking the handcuffs with which he was fastened and committed a rourd rous assault on one of the guards, He jumped from the hack and escaped. A search was instituted, but, despite all their efforts, he could not be located. Some 14 years after this he returned and gave himself up. He was imprisoned, but, on looking up his past career, it was found that he had given up his life of crime and was a prosperous citizen of the Unitd States. He was pardoned and returned to the States.

A Blow Addes

On Saturday, May 25, William Hill, of Ruthven, Ont., had a very startling experience. He was plowing in a field near the lake, when he came across a large blow adder. The snake at once showed fight, and swelled up to twice its natural size and puffed out a deadly odor, which Mr. Hill says almost knocked him down. The snake was killed and was found to be the most poisonous kind of blow adder. Mr. Hill says he never wishes to meet any more of them.
